Opening the Door on China’s Business Environment

When your group visits China, you want to make sure they get the maximum value from their experience. That means going beyond the textbook generalities and delving into the nuts and bolts of doing business in China. With more than 20 years of experience to draw on, The American Chamber of Commerce in China can offer unique insights on the operating environment and a persuasive view on the opportunities and challenges.

Our speakers have many years of working experience in China and daily contact with the chamber’s members. They can provide innovative content that will greatly enrich your group’s experience in China.

- Content tailored to your specific requirements, no matter executives, students or business associations.
- Thought-provoking, inspiring insights on the business environment in China drawn from the experience of our more than 1,000 members.
- Stories and statistics from the frontlines.
- Practical activities to lock in the information and make it a memorable experience.

“The presenter was truly a gifted speaker with great training in communication, journalism, and business administration. He addressed issues related to human resources and human capital acquisition and development, marketing, and manufacturing while being aware of the differences in socio-political and governmental environment between China and the West.”

— Dr. Jamshid Hosseini, Marquette University
